JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 7 .- "Are the horrors of the flood to give way to the terrors of the plague?" is the question that is now agitating the Valley of the Conemaugh. To day opened warm and almost sultry, and the stench that assails one's senses as he wanders through Johnstown is almost overpowering. Sickness, in spite of the precautions and herculean abors of the sanitary authorities, is on the ncrease, and the fears of epidemic grow with

TYPHOID FEVER AND KINDRED DISEASES here within a week or ten days in my opinion. The only thing that has saved us thus far has been the cold weather. That has now given place to summer weather and no one knows what the next few days may bring forth. Even among the workmen and attendants there is already discernible a great tendency is to diarrhea and dysentery. The men are living principally upon sait meat and there is a lack of vogetables. I have been forced to exercise an authority which, while it might aimost seem despotic, was, I hope judicious. I have at all times endeavored to be discreet."

"Very few, that is to say comparatively few. Of course, as the waters recede more and more between the banks we have come usince that time. I am only one of the many. Of course the worst has passed for the physicians, as our arrangements are now perfected and each corps will be relieved from Pittsburg this morning, and many of us will be relieved to-day. But the opinion is general many the medical men that there were an expectation is that the evast majority of all the dead may be recovered and disposed of in a Christian manner."

USING EVERY PRECAUTION. Dr. R. L. Sibbel of the State Board of Health is in charge of the Sanitary Head-

"We are using every precaution known to science," said he this morning, "to prevent the possibility of epidemic. Our labors here have not been confined to any particular channel, but have been extended in various directions. Disinfectants, of course, are first in sparing no hand. The prompt cremation of dead animals as fast as discovered is another thing which we have insisted upon. The immediate erection of water closets throughout the ruins for the workmen was another work of the greatest sanitary importance and has been attended to. They, too, are being disinfected at frequent intervals. We have a committe too that superintends THE BURIAL OF THE VICTIMS

Another committee is making a house to house inspection through-out the stricken city to ascer-tain the number of inhabitants in each standing house, the number of sick and to order the latter to the hospital whenever necessary. One great danger is the over-crowding of the houses and hovels, and that crowding of the houses and noves, and tast is prevented as much as possible by the use of tents on the mountain side. So far there is but little contagious disease, and we hope by dilligent and systematic efforts to prevent any

GOV. BRAVER'S MOVEMENTS. "So far as I know," said Adjutant-General Hastings this morning, "Gov. Beaver is not to visit the scene of disaster at all. I would have received official notification of his arrival, I think, and as yet such notification has not been received by me. The truth probably is a visited some of the oth

Miss H. W. Hinckley and her assistant, Miss hour. Within an hour after their arrival the scene of horrors, they established a bureau and were inpon the scene of horrors, they had established a bureau and were receiving the children and wee babes that had been orphaned by the cruel flood and flames. Aliss flinckley taiked cheerfully of her work to an Associated Press reporter this morning. "We have been very busy from the very first bour," said she, "and feel that we have been able to render good service. Within a few minutes we had received notification of perhaps a hundred orphan children, and as the press was kind enough to send out our addresses, we were within a few hours more in receipt of offers from all over the country to take charge of some of the little ones. In many cases the children reported to us have subsequently had their little hearts gladdened by the sudden apparition of a mother or father who, after all, was not lost in the flood, but had found friendly refuge on the riverside miles below. The scenes of these joyful meetings, afer even hope had fied, are such as to almost lighten the heavy pail that hangs over this field of death with which we are surrounded. From Cleveland, Indianapolis, Altoons, Pittsburg, and in fact throughout all Pennsylvania and the Eastern States, we have received telegrams from societies and families offering to take charge of a certain number of the little ones. We received through the Mayor of New York a message from Leakes & Watts' Orbhanage in New York City, offering to receive twenty-five of the orphan children. Of course we gladly accepted this offer. Indeed, we can respond to many such kind offers. It is yet impossible to estimate how many children will fall upon our hands, but it will probably run into the hundreds."

our hands, but it will proceed the hundreds."

The Associated Press representative strolled through one of Miss Hinckley's little nurseries and found a score of little ones playing and laughing gaily, oblivious of the cruel blow that had been dealt them. In one group nine children of the same family were seen, the oldest not over 18 years. They were Germans, and both father and mother had, through the inscrutable ways of Providence, found a watery grave, while the nine little waifs had escaped in the floating debris of their humble cottage.

HOW MONEY SHOULD BE REMITTED.

burg. Johnstown, Pa., June 7.—The Associated Press agent at Johnstown has received numerous telegrams from all portions of the United Sates, asking to whom drafts fer United S. res, asking to whom drafts for relief should 'a remitted. In many enses checks and drafts have been addressed to Mr. James B. Scott, the chosen dictator of the valley, and this was probable the most proper person to whom to make these remittances. "I wish you would now state to the country," said Col. Scott to the Associated Press reporter to day, "that as things are becoming more and more settled every hour, I would recommend that all drafts and checks nereafter be sent to William R. Thompson, Treasurer of the Finance Committee, Pittsburg. That city is now really the financial point, as most of our supplies hope and expectation is that the vast majority of all the dead may be recovered and disposed of in a Christian manner.

"How about the movement to burn the rubbles—bodies and all?"

"I don't think that will be done, at least only as a last resort. While there is great only as a last resort. While there is great anxiety in regard to the sanitary condition, all possible precautions are being taken and we hope to prevent any disease until we shall have time to thoroughly overhaul the wreck. Of course as fast as each pile of rubbles is searched and it is heaped up the torch will be applied, but that it is the only burning that will be done. There will be no general conflagration, because, in my opinion, there is no necessity for it. All property that is of any value is extracted from these heaps of debris before the fire is applied, and it is certain that no house will be burned that is worth repairing. Naturally in this scene of general devastation we do not have all the consideration for minor masters that we would have had at a local disaster of less frightful character. Strict orders have been issued this morning, let me say, to arrest any person found throwing any rubbish or dirty water of any kind into the streets—not only in Johnstown proper but in the suburbs. We propose to continue this work of say kind into the streets—not only in Johnstown proper but in the suburbs. We propose to continue this work of say kind into the streets—not only in Johnstown has a season who have lost relatives or friends are admitted. Of course, that the dead are being handled here very much as one would handle cord-wood, but this is a great mistake. As soon as possible after discovery they are borne from the public gaze and taken to the morgue, where only persons who have lost relatives or friends are admitted. Of course, the general exclusion is not applied to attendants, physicians and representatives of the press, but it is rigorously applied to carsiess signt-seers. We have no room for eight-seers in Johnstown now. It is ear

NEW YORK, June 7.—J. L. Bell, General Su perintendent of the Railway Mail Service, said to-day that the accumulation of matter caused by the flood had all been disposed of, and that by the flood had all been disposed of, and that while delay in the forwarding of mail matter along some of the lines would be inevitable the interruption had ended. He was advised by Mr. Frank Thomson, First Vice-President of the Pennsylvania road, that by to-morrow it was hoped that service would be resumedfover that system, using the Northern Central from Harrisburg to Williamsport, the Philadelphia & Erie to Driftwood and the Allegheny Valley into Pittsburg. The only breaks in this route are around Williamsport and Mr. Thomson expressed confidence in his ability to close them by this evening. Between Johnstown and Blairsville Junction on the main fine; the road is in such condition that no definite announcement can now be made of the time when it will be in running order. Local mails in that vicinity are being transported by wagons and horses. The same is true, General Superintendent Bell reports, of the territory south and southwest of Elmira, N. Y., along the lines of the Northern Pennsylvania and Pine Creek roads. Both of those suffered severely and the officials do not say when they will be reopened for business. Thirty-Eight Bodies Recovered

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 7,-So far as know at this hour only thirty-eight bodies have been his morning recovered in the Conemangh numanity that was suddenly discovered by teamster in the center of a road which wagons had been passing for the past forty-eight hours. The heavy vehicles had sunk deeply in the sand and broken nearly every bone in the body. It was quite impossible to identify the corpse, and it was taken to a morgue and orders issued for its buyial after a few hours exposure to the gaze of those who still eagerly search for missing friends. Only the hardiest can stand to enter the morgue this morning, so overwhelming is the dread-ful stench. The undertakers even, after hurriedly performing their task of washing a body and preparing it for burial, retreat to the yard to await the arrival of the next ghastly find.

HE changes in public tast are in few lines of busines so frequent and inexplica ble as in the pipe and to bacco trade," said Julin Kaidenberg, of Philadel phia, who is at the South ern, ... 'I have been engaged in it for many years, and have come to the conclu-sion that the veriest green. line of goods that will sell as I am. A few years ago every one in New York, Philadelphia and Boston wanted the best meerschaum pipes, and the trade between Europe and America in this line amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. About 1849 a meerschaum craze took possession of New York and Phila-delphia, and in a milder form soon extended

THE MEERSCHAUM CRAZE. "Nearly every smoker wanted at least one fine meerschaum, and some had as many as fitteen or twenty. A significant fact, indic-ative that it was fashion and not a love for pipe-smoking that caused the demand, was the disproportionately high price paid for colored meerschaums. Those who bought the finest and most expensive pipes evidently did always tried to get one ready colored, and not a few men made a good living by smoking pipes until they attained the desired hue, charging large prices for their services. Some of the dealers took men regularly into their employ who did nothing but color pipes, and their customers could obtain an article which they could add to their collection in perfect their customers could obtain an article which they could add to their collection in perfect condition, and without any fumigation on their part.

"The best pipes by far come from Vienna. They are cut, not by common workmen, but by skilled carvers and some of the best are real works of rrt. The American buyers at first ran to large pipes, with figures carved on the stone, but soon stopped this, as it was found that it was impossible to impart anything like an even color to these. The pipes with figures raised upon the bowl were next the faverless, and finally those with designs cut in integlio. This latter was only a temporary craze, and did not extend far from New York, as the intaglio cutting was likely to injure the bowl and to cause cracks. The demand for meerschaums continued until above 1886, and many dealers, myself schools the number, laid in large "Las. Suddenly the demand ceased, the farbion changing to English briar woods, and we found that we could not get what we paid for our stock, and were tenth of what we sold them at. The loss entailed was heavy, and not a few dealers were thrown into bankruptcy by it.

"In regard to the eigar trade the uncertainty of the demand for fancy brands is equally great. I can well remember the time when everyone who wanted an expensive cigar called for a 'wist.' These cigars always came in packages of three, twisted together like strands of a rope and invariably made of very strong, moist tobacco. They were about as inconvenient articles to smoke as can well be imagined and seldom or never burned evenly, as the twisting made one pertion drier than another. But they were the fashion and if the article sold was only showy and rank enough there was never any complaint. As a rute they were made of very inferior tobacco and the dealers made a great profit upon them. I due to it you could to day find 300 ciwist clears in the city of St. Louis.

"The next rage, and one that has not yet died out in some parts of the country, was for gars in the city of St. Louis.

"The nextrage, and one that has not yet died out in some parts of the country, was for cheroots. What were called Manilia cheroots were sold by the hundreds of thousands in New York, although when they reached/that city they were farther from Virginia than they had ever been before. People pretended to discover some preculiarly delicious flavor in them, although as a matter of fact they were nothing but cigars with the sharp end cut off. Then came the era of the rattalls, or Virginias, as they were sometimes called. These were about a foot long, with a straw, generally cracked, runuing through them. The only difference between them and an ordinary olgar was that the smoke was hot an ordinary cigar was that the smoke was hot when it reached the mouth, and the flavor of the straw was added to that of the tobacco. But the real smokers, those who indulge in the weed from the love of it, and not from fashion, never follow false gods, but stick to the staple articles."

The thirty-seventh annual exhibition of the nusic school for the blind will take place this music school for the blind will take place this evening at the institute on Nineteenth and Morgan streets. A programme made up of seventeen selections has been arranged under the practiced hand of Prof. M. A Gisinn. The musical selections will be solos, duets, quartettes, choruses and class singing. A cornet solo will be rendered by George Waburton, an aria by Annie Crawford, piano solos by Cora Montgomery and Vida Drane and two essays by Lizzte Rook and Annie Owens. A degree of interest is added to this exhibition by the fact that all the participants are pupils of the institute.

The story of Sitting Bull's fail from power is one of the most pathetic in indian history. He is not, as most pathetic in indian history. He is not, as most pathetic in indian history. He is not, as most pathetic in indian history. He is not, as most pathetic in indian history. He is not, as most people suppose, a warrior; he never was fighting man even in his youth. He began life as a "imediate man." He is the son of Four Horns, one of the four supreme chiefs elected by the Sloux Nation more than a generation ago. Four, Horns, if living, is now a very oid man. With the feebleness of advancing years he fell from power, as always happens with Indian chiefs. Indians will not submit to the leadership of a man who is feel be and decrepit. Sitting Bull himself must be now nearly 60 years old. DYING.

Hilling of Custer was an accident; that if he had been recognized in time his life would have been spared. He professed to be a great admirer of Custer, and probably was. Under the company of the camp. Sitting Bull was company of the camp and divides the chief traship of that band with Gall. Ever since the little Big Horn fight there has been company of the camp and divides the chief traship of that band with Gall. Ever since the commanded the Indians on that occasion, sitting Bull remained in his tent making incantations, distilling "medicines" and incantations, distill the next generation of Indians would have to become like the white men around them and learn to till the earth and master the mechan-ical arts. After a white Sitting Bull was per-mitted to return to Standing Rock and later was allowed to go to the Grand River Valley. This valley comprises the traditional sacred hunting grounds of the Sioux Indians. It is the richest of all the Indian possessions in North America.

Sitting Bull built for himself allitle "shack" on the Grand River about fifteen miles from Stonewall Creek, the place where he was born. With the exception of a trip which he made to the East accompanied by some of his peopie, he has lived at this place ever born. With the exception of a trip which he made to the East accompanied by some of his people, he has lived at this place ever since. But it has not been as Sitting Bull that once stood high in the estimation of his people. The touch or civilization has undermined the faith of the Sloux in the medicine man. When he went to the agency to receive his rations he was no longer hailed as the "Great I Am;" he was nalways treated with certain measure of respect, but it was the same as that accorded to other chiefs who had never been famous.

At the great Sioux council which was held at the time the Daws commission visited Standing Rock to get the consent of the Indians to the opening of the strip of territory lying between the Missouri and the Black Hills—II,000,000 acres in extent—Gall amply demonstrated how completely Sitting Bull had loss his ascendency. Gall called him names to his face, and practically drove him out of the camp.

GIVE QUICKLY AND LIBERALLY. Later reports from the Conemaugh Valley show that the situation is worse instead of better than was anticipated and that the need of immediate relief on an enormous scale is extreme.

It is impossible to describe accurately the condition of the valley and its surviving people. The entire extent of the valley is a wreck, with houses demolished and lands covered with slime and rocks. The wreckage of destroyed property is scattered over the country and is packed against the Johnstown bridge and other obstructions. In this mass of wreckage are thousands of decomposing bodies of animals and human beings, turning the whole valley into a modern Gehenna to breed pestilence and death along the entire course of the rivers below the Conemaugh unless removed at once. It is estimated that it will take 10,000 men thirty days to clear away this fetid debris. An immense sum of money is required for this important work at once.

Conservative estimates place the number of the dead at about 15,000. The loss of all property in the valley is complete. This leaves at least 30,000 persons homeless and penniless, who must be supplied with food and clothing immediately and until they can be given homes and occupation. True benevolence should go even further than this, and aid them in rebuilding their ruined houses.

It is natural, perhaps, for people to conclude that with the whole country responding to the call for aid there is no need of hurry or unusual liberality, but this is a mistake. The dispatches from the scene of disaster state that there are romises of help, but that money and supplies are lacking. We have no sympathy with the selfish argument that Pennsylvania should take care of her own suffering. Pennsylvanians are doing much, but there are many other devastated districts imploring help besides the Cone-

The appeal for prompt generosity goes to every citizen of the United States. Every citizen of St. Louis should respond to it to the utmost of his means.

ANOTHER GREAT DISASTER.

Following close upon the heels of the awful cataclysm in the Conemaugh Vallev comes the news of a terrible disaster in the far West. The city of Seattle, W. T., is threatened with total destruction by reports of a great conflagration at that place which had eaten into the heart of the city and had destroyed millions of dollars worth of property. The news is confirmed to-day with additional information which indicates that the conflagration has become a monstrous holocaust. It is estimated that the loss in property already reaches the enormous sum of $30,000,000, and it is believed that many persons have perished in the flames. The reports state that dynamite was used to blow up buildings in order that the flames might be checked. The cutting off of telegraphic communication makes the securing of definite information difficult, the Johnstown disaster, but after the de- but there is little doubt that Seattle is nearly destroyed.

The proverbial multipli cation of misfortunes is strangely accomplished by flood and fire within a week. The East and the West are suffering under teractivity in the Brooklyn Navy Yard? The rible visitation, and stretch out their arms imploring help. The generosity of this great prosperous people which goes out to Johnstown will embrace Seattle should her people need assistance. THE necessity of a pleasure resort within a stone's throw of the 1,371 acres of beautiful Forest Park is not apparent. And the propriety of compelling residents adjoining a block to pay an enormous sum for it by threats of decreasing the comfort of their homes and depreciating the value

Brother Bull knows well that he cannot put up with that sort of bullying much longer without virtually confessing that he will knuckle down to Brother Jonathan in almost anything the said, barely possible that Brother Bull's ships have orders to stand against Brother Jonathan's pretensions. If so, there will be exciting times before next winter. We believe the Washington authorities will back down if firmly resisted. But what if they do not back down? Then Canada would have to face the worst. What then? Well, the Globe has always been very well disposed to peace and friendship with the United States, but we say with the utmost deliberation that it would be far better for Canada and Great Britain to face reasonable, unendurable American preten

"Were you ever in charge of the station before?"

"Yes, sir," he answered, "from July, 1884, until July, 1887. I was interested in the work of the State weather service, and in order to have the Signal Service co-operate with the weather service. I requested to be relieved of the charge of the Signal Office and to be appointed assistant to Prof. Nipher, who is director of the weather service. My request was complied with."

therefore, wish to commit such important interests and responsibilities to an inexperienced observer or one who will not fully realize their value. It is not his intention to impose on you more labor than you can properly parform, but it is thought that, with the addition of another competent assistant to the present station force, you will be able to properly perform both the duties connected with the station and those that pertain to the State weather service.

The Chief Signal Officer does not desire so confine you too closely to clerical or routine labor, but expects you to become responsible for and arrance the

The Chief Signal Officer deems it necessary to invite your attention in detail to the important interess to be committed to your charge, and feels confident that in the future, as in the past, you will be found competent to properly care for them. Should it not be possible to furnish you a competent assistant immediately on Sergt. Chappel's discharge, and you find additional help necessary, authority will be granted you, on application, to hire a civilian temporarily. Very respectfully, your obedient servant, Second Lieutenant Signal Corps. Assistant and Stations Officer.

And here is the letter that Lieut. Watkins, the prosecuting witness, relies on to sustain the claim that he, not Sergt. Weber, was in charge of the office:

MADE AN IMPRESSION.

After Weber's letter had been read the Sergeant was perfectly composed. He had laid his foundation and was satisfied that he had a good basis on which to stand. If one can judge from appearances this letter to Sergt, Weber made a marked impression on the court.

Lieut. Boughton next asked from whom Sergt. Weber received the property when he took charge.

"What property in the private office did you receive from Sergt. Chappel?"

"The records and reports which were stored in the large book-case in the private office. There was other property, such as stationery, a telescope and other articles which I do not remember at present."

"After you took charge what did Lieut. Watkins do at that station?"

"When I took charge, I was told by my predecessor that Lieut. Watkins was under orders to inspect stations outside of St. Louis, and that I was in complete charge of all the rooms."

"When did he go away and how long was he "When did he go away and how long was he gone?"

'When I came to the office at 11 o'clock on this Monday, after having performed duties at the Washington University, I went to the private office and found Lieut. Watkins seated at his side of the desk. I spoke to him pleasantly, asked him how he enjoyed his trip, and exchanged other words with him of a similar nature. He seemed, however, not disposed to speak to me in the same manner. I sat down at my side of the desk and began doing my work. After a short interval of perhaps a few minutes, Lieut. Values be seen to control while writing the letter I had no idea that Lieut. Watkins wisned me to vacate the room instantly. Before taking out my papers, which necessariliy disarranges the work, I handed the letter to him unsigned. When he read it he ordered me to stand up. I immediately rose from my chair. Then he told me that I had not signed the letter, and after he handed it back to me I signed it and directed Private Gray to copy it in the letter-book. Then Lieut. Watkins ordered me again to take everything out of the desk and move across the way. I immediately proceeded to vacate the different drawers of my side of the desk, placing my reports, stationery and other work in regular order on the desk. While doing so I asked Lieut. Watkins in a natural tone of voice whether he had been placed in charge of the station. I had scarcely put that question when he said:

"GET UP! GET UP!"

"I then said: 'Lleutenant, I am engaged in obeying your orders.' When I did so he arcse from his chair and, walking to the door, said again: 'Stand up,' which order I obeyed at once. When Private Gray, whom he called, at this time came in I was standing at my desk. The papers which I had already taken out of the desk were lying on the desk except a few important letters and papers, which I held in my hand. Lient. Watkins addressing Private

Watkins addressing Private Gray said: 'I want you to witness that this man disobeys my orders,' then turning to me Lieut. Watkins said: 'I now order you to vacate this office.' I then said to Private Gray. 'Please take everything here,' pointing to my desk, and carry it across the way.' 'Private Grayseemed to hesitate, and thinking that he did know what to do with my things, I said: 'Make room for them anywhere, because I may be back in a short time.' I said this because there was no room in any desk for me to place my things without disarranging the work of the other men. It was said to Private Gray alone without intention of any disrespect toward Lieut. Watkins, about this time Lieut. Watkins, said to me: 'Some fellows must have harsh treatment.' Then he said: 'Fellow, if you dare to disobey me agfin! will take you to Jefferson Barracks. I have a mind to do so right now.' Then I left the private office, and crossing to the instrument room, I wrote out and sent a telegram to the Chief Signal Officer, which read as follows:

''Has Lieut. Watkins authority to dispose of office rooms? He has ordered me to vacate the Observer's private office.

(Signed)

'I also sent a letter explaining the telegram nordered you a second time to stand up?''

''I was engaged taking things out of my desk.''

"How long after he ordered you to stand up did you obey the order?"

"Immediately."

At this point the court took a recess until the afternoon. So far Sergt. Weber has made an excellent showing, and to a man up a tree it looks as if the dainty little Lieutenant had failed to sustain his case.

CONSTANT READER.—As a shoe manufacturing center St. Louis cocupies a prominent position, being surpassed only by Lynn, Brockton, New York, Philadelphia and Rochester. The value of shoes manufactured in St. Louis in 1888 was estimated at 37,114,682, while the jobbing trade amounted to about 515,000,000—a total of $22,000,000. This year, so far, has shown a gain over last year of 40 per cent in manufacturing. Chicago last year "claimed" a total business of 325,000,000, including jobbers and manufacturing. There are probably more shoes made in St. Louis than Chicago, at the latter city includes in its estimate the large penitentiary contracts of Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indians. We are under the impression that more shoes are actually made in St. Louis than in any city in the

They have been of the peace and threatened with equally unjust prosecutions for trespass and destruction of property. The finding of the carcass of a hog in the vicinity of the hotel has been made the basis of an ugly suspicion that they have done murder on the defunct porcine and another prosecution is threatened From their experiences so far it would seem that the officers of the law at Ironton are determined to assess all damages sustained by flood, fire and the visitation of Providence against the peaceful sophomores who went lites and the friendliest intentions. Annually are given one month's work in the field. In accordance with this custom Prof. J. B. On the way to the office they started up a college song which was brought to a sudden close by the descent of a Constable and a a college song which was brought to a sudden close by the descent of a Constable and a Deputy City Marshal, who, armed with revolvers which were aimed at the students, placed the eleven students under arrest. A Justice of the Peace was called up and court opened in the Town Hall AT 11 O'CLOCK F. M. and the boys were given a choice between giving bond aggregating $5,500, paying a fine of $1 and coats each or going to jail. They decided to plead guilty to the charge as the easiest way out of the trouble and were assessed $4,50 each, all the money except $11 going to the vigilant officers and the hungry officials of the midnight tribunal as fees for the performance of duty.

On Saturday eleven more students went down and found the advance guard considerably exasperated over their treatment. They intended to pull up stakes and leave the town, but were prevailed on by their hostess to remain. Any further attacks by boozy officials will probably meet with more determined resistance hereafter.

Prot. Johnson has written a card to the Iron County Register addressed "To the Good People of Ironton and Vicinity," setting forth the indignities and injustices shown the pupils. He left Prof. Hovey in charge of the detachment of students in the field on last Monday and made a report to Prof. Marshall S. Snow.

THE FROFESSOR'S ACCOUNT

Monday and made a report to Prof. Marshall S. Snow.

THE PROFESSOR'S ACCOUNT of the raid on the students and their subsequent arraignment and experiences during the first three days' stay is as follows:

"The eleven students who arrived on Friday evening had scarcely been in the city an hour when they were suddenly, without the least warning, put under arrest by the constable, who had called to his aid the deputy City Marshal. The students had started out about 9 o'clock to find the Post-office, for the purpose of mailing postal cards, which they had all written home, telling of their happy arrival. They marched in file and sang their college songs, as is the custom of students the world over. For this alone they were arrested, marched into a saloon at the point of a revolver, and given their choice to plead guilty of disturbing the peace before a hastily summoned court, or giving a bond in the sum of $500 each, or going to jail, and so thought the easiest way out of the scrape was to plead guilty. They so decided, and a court was summoned in the City Hall, where at about 11 o'clock p. m. they were all duly you will leave my name out. Where I get the give such bonds, could not think of going to jail, and so thought the easiest way out of the scrape was to plead guilty. They so decided, and a court was summoned in the City Hall, where at about 11 o'clock p. m. they were all duly fined $11 and costs by a great Injustice of the Peace. The total cost to each of these eleven students was $4.50 It is to be hoped the city will get the benefit of the $11 assessed for the disturbance of the peaceful slumbers of its citizens.

"The acting prosecuting attorney contented himself with one fee, although the great Injustice of the Peace tried to force eleven upon him, and did assess them for the other court officers, for a single arrest and a single plea of guilty as a body. Having thus levied and collected tribute from these boys to the amount of $49.50, they graciously allowed them to proceed in their search for the Post-office.

"No doubt these hungry officers were greatly chagrined next day to find that they had spruned mext day to find that they had spruned mext day to find that they had only waited till Saturday night, they might have doubled their profits.

"It may have been a very unreasonable and improper feeling which prompted the students and their instructors, on their return to the hotel (for the latter had arrived on the scene just in time to witness the real point of the fees), but it was at ouce decided to leave without further disturbance the slumber ous peace of the happy city and to go to Bonne Terre, where they had been strongly pressed to come. They had their grips all repacked and ready to leave on the same train they came on, at 5:50 next morning, but at the very earnest solicitation of their good hostess they consented to remain.

"On Saturday several of the good citizens called on these strangers and assured them of the almost universal regret of the previous night's proceedings, and of the cordial good will of the better class of people.

"On Monday evening, however, they received a formal visit from one of the merchants, who came in company with student $5 cash down for this valuable tree, or else be prosecuted for trespass on his premises!

"It seems these people have a strong way of putting things. It did not seem quite right to pay so much money for so small a shruh, and yet this man evidently had the law on his side, and the trespasser could doubtless be successfully prosecuted. It looked very much like what is commonly called but then this merchant had a very fair precedent and pattern set him in the legal proceedings of Friday night. Furthermore, this merchant doubtless considers himself one of the best citizens of the place, and these law-less students had outraged his private rights and destroyed his property.

"Now, in the name of all that's reasonable, what are these poor fellows to do? They are further charged with tilling a pig which has been found dead near their notel, and are savagely threatened with dire consequences.

"Surveying cannot be learned except by doing it, and this practice cannot be confined to the public streets. If so, the class could have as well remained in St. Louis. Neither can they afford to take the time to find the owner and get permission to enter every piece of property in the region. They destroy nothing willfully and in fact do very little damage of any kind. Any actual damage they may cause to property or to crops they are willing at all sparsely settled portion of the city and them call on them and throw them into a police station without an opportunity to show their willingness to obey the law."

"To his card to the good people of Ironton, Prof. Johnson says:

"The undersigned desires to appeal to the good citizens of Ironton in benalf of these young men, whom he believes have been mistreated and misunderstood."

was seen this morning and said: "I think the treatment outrageous. Prof. Johnson informed me of the matter when he was up here last Monday. It appears that at the last election these officers were elected and the respectable people are powerless. I don't know what can be done. I believe that if I were there I would have resisted this thing. We don't know what catton will be taken until Prof. Johnson comes up. He will probably be here in a few days. The students are all excellent young men and not likely to cause any trouble. They were singing when this constable came down on them with leveled revolver. It is outrageous."

There are stable came down on them with leveled revolver. It is outrageous."

There are

TWENTY-TWO STUDENTS
and two professors at Ironton, as follows: J. B. Johnson, Professor of Civil Engineering: O. E. Hovey, Instructor; A. H. Baier, F. E. Bausch, W. G. Breneke, N. C. Goldshall, L. Maury, J. Puchta, B. W. Roper, G. P. Walbrecht, W. E. Zeile, C. A. Bohn, J. V. Bohn, H. D. Chapman, W. H. Danforth, N. H. Emmons, J. R. Fordyce, J. B. Guinn, V. H. Pass, C. L. Whitney, J. E. Whitney, J. D. Pope, A. R. Rombauer. The first eleven students named above arrived in company with their professors on Friday evening. The rest came next day. The eleven who came Friday evening had hardly been in town an hour when they were arrested by a drunken Constable, assisted by the Deputy City Marshal. They were arrested without warning, for simply singing their college songs on the street about 9:30 o'clock, on the way to the Post-office. They were marched into a saloon and given their choice to plead guilty to disturbing the peace, furnishing a bond in the sum of $500, or going to jail, as stated above.

The treatment accorded the students is in keeping with the usual conduct of these officers towards summer visitors. These officers towards summer visitors. These officers towards summer residence by the outrageous conduct of these officers, and thousands of dollars which would have gone into the pockets of the trades people and cottage owners have been diverted to other less hostile localities.

owners have been diverted to other less hostile localities.

This treatment of the students has caused great indignation on the part of the better class of ettizens, who universally declared the whole thing was only a scheme to get fees out of the boys. Judge J. W. Emmerson, United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Missouri, whose home is here, but whose business is in St. Louis, no sooner heard of it than he at once sent a check to the boys for the full amount of the fines and costs, with many regrets over their treatment. There will probably be no further trouble as the officers have learned that the citizens will not tolerate such outrages. The officers who alone are responsible are Paul Patton, Constable; C. B. Hill, Deputy Marshal, and Franz Dinger, Justice of the Peace.

OUT OF THE COURTS FOREVER.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch. New York, June 7.—The announcement of the proposed compromise in the Stewart will contest yesterday was a genuine surprise to all. Probably the most perfectly surprised brother Fred are nembers, said to the Post-Disparch correspondent:

"I'll tell you the terms of the settlement if you will leave my name out. Where I get the information is my own business, but it is straight. In the first place, Judge Hilton did not offer a compromise. Now, mind you, that is not saying that the Butlers or the Smiths proposed it first. They did not either. It just sort of worked itself around through the lawyers. It was found that there was a possibility of a compromise being effected and the principals were consulted. Judge Hilton said he was willing to do the fair thing, and the Butler-Smith side said they would accept the fair thing. That was a good beginning.

"Then as a preliminary step Judge Hilton agreed to settle with the contesting parties in all the questions which came up before the Surrogate. In these questions there was an agreement to settle up for $5,000,000, although in the suit before the Surrogate there was involved a question of just $10,000,000. Judge Hilton has also promised to turn over to the family of Judge J. Lawrence Smith the sum of at least $1,000,000 in addition to the principal sum named above. In addition to this the contestants are to 00-operate with Judge Hilton as co-executors in all matters pertaining to the vital interests of the estate. above. In addition to this the contestants are to co-operate with Judge Hilton as co-executors in all matters pertaining to the vitai interests of the estate. This latter item is a big one in the compromise, as it will enable both sides to dispose of property by sale or otherwise and give perfect title, a thing which would be impossible were there not unity and good feeling among the executors. This, sir, is in brief the basis on which the settlement was effected."

By the terms of the compromise it will be seen that the contestants will have a neat little sum of $6,000,000 or more out of the $40,000,000 estate, in addition to that already conceded. Col. Ingersoil was spoken to about the compromise, and he remarked to the reporter:
"It was a very sensible thing for Judge Hilton to do, and I am glad to hear it. Hilton has done well."
The last words said to the reporter by the gentleman who gave the terms of the settlement were:
"The contest is settled. It is out of the courts forever."

Mr. Cleveland Presented With a Handsome

Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, June 7 .- There were, several leasant and several unpleasant incident connected with ex-President Cleveland's review of the Clinton avenue division of the Brooklyn Sunday-school parade on Wednesday. An interesting feature was the meeting between Mr. Cleveland and Grover Cleveland Sumner, a 6-year-old boy who was one of the paraders. The little chap carefully nursed a large bouquet of water lilies until he reached the reviewing stand, when he stepped out of the ranks, took off his cap, handed a policeman the bouquet and asked him to present it to Mr. Clevelsnd. Attached to the bouquet was a card bearing the name Grover Cleveland Sumner. The ex-President seemed greatly pleased with the gift, and, turning to Mayor Chapin, said: "That was the first boy named after me. He was born when I was Governor."

An unpleasant feature was the hissing of Mr. Sumner, a 6-year-old boy who was one of the Governor.

An unpleasant feature was the hissing of Mr. Cleveland by some of the school boys belonging to the North Reformed Church class, of which Mr. Hubert B. King is Superintendent. It was Mr. King who invited Mr. Cleveland to review the Clinton Avenue Division. When he told his class of the expected presence of Mr. Cleveland he was astonished to hear some of them hiss. "Boys, you should not hiss," he said deprecatingly. "Next year I will invite President Harrison." Mr. Cleveland did not appear to notice the disrespect.

The writer of the letter, which is possmarked Philadelphia, says he is a poor man with a family. He understands that there are grave doubts as to the reliability of the electrical apparatus, and that a trial of it would doubtless settle all mooted questions and remove many of the objections now urged so vehemently. He is willing to be a trial victim if the Superintendent will pay $5,000 to his family to provide for their wants after the deadly current has taken away their provider. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 7 .- It was supposed at the me of the sudden death of Allen Thorndyke Rice that he died intestate. It now appears found about ten days ago among his effects in Paris. A cablegram says that the will is dated 1881, and that it has been sent to Mr. C. N. Cotting of Boston, one of the executors of Mr. Rice's estate. Beyond the fact that the will has been found, the friends of Mr. Rice in this city say they know nothing. They admit, however, that they believe a later will is in existence and will be brought to light in due time. The estate will have to be settled up in this city, as Mr. Rice's death occurred here. Mr. D. A. Munroe, general manager of the North American Review, announced yesterday that there would not be any changes in that office at present, and that Mr. Rice's arrangements as planned previous to his intended departure for Europe would be carried out. found about ten days ago among his effects in the question which all Europe is now considering. There is really no sovereign in the world whose acts are of the properties.

Pope Leo XIII. character of the Pope's and the death of Leo XIII. to morrow would create a stir which would attract the attention of Americans more than any event that has occurred within the memory of the present generation. Why? Well, it is more than possible that European jealousies, no less than the present situation of the Vatican, would dictate the election of the American Cardinal, Archibishop Gibbons of Baltimore, to the bishop Gibbons of Chair of Peter. That is the concensus of opinion here and the reasons advanced are lucidly

"And all this leads you to believe that the only compromise is an American Cardinal, Globons for instance?"

"Exactly; and I predict that under his administration the Roman question would be settled. The European Governments are considerably perturbed over the possibilities of the conclave, and would certainly unite in offering inducements to Italy to grant a certain territory to the Pope, in which he would be a sovereign, perfectly free and independent this wiry frame annot a strain of his age and citizen of the great Republic of the West. I would like to see him Pope myself. Would not you?" condensed by a Roman prelate, whose position prevents the publication of his name which I send you in confidence as a guarantee of the authority which brings the United States into such prominence in the old world's affairs. The Pope is not very stron, and reliable reports state that his wiry frame annot much longer endure the strain of his age and THE SITUATION IN EUROPE TO-DAY.

"Take a glance at the situation in Europe to-day," said my Roman informant, "and mark it well. Germany is opposed to all things French; France to all things German. Under the concordat France has the privilege to protest against the election of certain candilates. The privilege is rarely exercised and the cardinals are not bound to obey it; but under present circumstances, when every force must be utilized in the struggle for the restoration of temporal power, it would be obeyed. Germany's candidates rejected, polley would compel the cardinals to ignore France's claims, for Germany cannot be oftended. Cardinal Howard is afflicted with dinals are placed beyond consideration by their age-Newman being 88 and infirm, and Manning 81."

"But there are the Italian cardinals?" "Of course; but do you not know that they are old men-at least all the Cardinals whos lives and labors single them out for consider poila, Sanfelice and Vanutteli are the only ing and Surveying Instruments. etc.

"Would any Government object to him?" asked the correspondent, wondering where the difficulties were going to end.

IMPORTANCE OF THE NEXT CONCLAYE.

"Well, to tell you the truth, there never before was a time when Italian cardinals were ineligible from political circumstances. France has to-day nine cardinals in the Sacred College, a very unusual number, caused by the fact that in addition to the prelates selected by the Pope, the French Government insisted on the elevation of Mgr. Foulon, a rich Bishop of Lyons. This gives you an idea of the importance attached to the next conclave, and a further illustration is to be had in the official announcement that President Carnot will receive the berettas from the Pope, and in person present them to the three new French Cardinals."

"But what has this to do with the opposition to an Italian candidate?" was the query.

JOHN W. KAUFFMAN'S NEW RESIDENCE. The Olive street cable's western terminus is at the southwest corner of the property.

These are the facts regarding the location of the enterprise. John W. Kauffman is very much exercised over the proposal and his property owners of the vicinity. The very and Mr. Swift in regard to the matter pubished in the POST-DISPATCH yesterday opied in all the city papers to-day and had a er among the agents.

By some it is maintained that a beer garden at the end of the cable, over 600 feet from Forest Park, would not be a nuisance, and would not reduce the value of the surroundwould not reduce the value of the surrounding real estate one cent. Such a resort if properly conducted they claim would enhance the popularity of the section. The other side of the question is presented more vehemently, and the claim is made that if the beer garden is allowed to be established on that particular corner the bright prospects of high values for all the surrounding property will be lost, and nothing could give the section a boom afterward. Beside talking

THE OFFENDED PROPERTY OWNERS have been looking up the law upon the subject of saloons near Forest Park, and have struck a lead which they think will effectually prevent the speculators from diverting their property to the purpose of a public resort.

When Forest Park was established March when Forest Park was established March 25, 1874, it lay in the county of St. Louis, Subsequently when the limits of St. Louis city were extended to take in the park the original act establishing the park was repealed, and it has been supposed that a law passed by the Legislature, March 29, 1875, establishing a district surrounding Forest Park, in which nuisances could not be maintained nor liquors sold, was also repealed. This seems to have been a mistake. The limit of the district under the law is 800 feet from the outer boundary of the park.

The Municipal Assembly of the City of St. Louis acting under the mistaken idea that the act had been repealed passed an ordinance establishing similar districts about Tower Grove, Forest and O'Fallon Park and fixing the limits of such districts at 500 feet from the outer boundaries of these parks. If the opinions of establishing a district 800 wide about Forest Park in which liquor cannot be sold that much of the city ordinance which contracts the limits of the district about the park to 500 is inoperative and void.

The particular paragraph of the State law affecting this matter is section 2 (Page 47, Laws of Missouri, 1876):

No buildings, booths or stands for the gift or sale of any spirituous, vinous, fermented or mait liquors shall be exected or kept within a district embraced within the limits of 800 feet outside of the out boundary of said park; and any person or persons who shall offer for sale or sell any of the liquors aloresaid, within the district aforesaid of 800 feet, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined for each and every offense the sum of 50, to a MNOTHER STRING TO THE BOW.

There is another section of this act that might be held to apply to extend this limit still farther. It is sec. 4:

Any manufacturing business or other establishment to be erected or constructed within the distance of 1,000 yards from the outer boundary or said park as aforesaid, which shall be condemned by the unanimous vote of said Board of Commissioners and declared to be injurious or offensive to said park or to any property therein, or to the full enjoyment of said park by the people may be entered upon by said Park Commissioners or their agents, who are hereby fully authorized and empowered to remove said buildings or establishments, or to abote any nuisance created thereby.

The Board of Park Commissioners was abolished by the repeal of the park act, but their be entered upon by and Park Commissioners or their agents, who are hereby fully authorized and empowered to remove said buildings or establishments, or to abate any mulsance created thereby.

The Board of Park Commissioners was abolished by the repeal of the park act, but their mantle has descended upon city-officials who might under this section have and exercise the power of removing the appurtenances of a beer garden outside of the limit of 1,000 yards from the out-boundary of Forest Park. But there is some uncertainty about that. About the prohibition of the sale of liquor within the 800 feet limit all the attorneys consulted by property owners interested agree that it still exists. Among the attorneys consulted was

JOHN C. ORRICK.

He rendered a written opinion, with which three other attorneys have agreed. His opinion in full is as follows:

"I am informed that certain persons wish to establish a beer garden on Maryland avenue and Kings highway, extending east about 817 feet, and you wish to know whether in my opinion there is any law to prevent the carrying out of such an enterprise.

"I find by the scheme and charter of the city of St. Louis, which went into effect October 32, 1876, article 3, section 36, it is provided that 'the Mayor and Assembly shall have the power within the city by ordinance not inconsistent with the constitution, or any law of this State, or of this charter, to license, regulate and tax saloons, beer houses, tippling houses, dram shops, etc.,' and finally 'to pass all,'such ordinances not inconsistent with the provisions of this charter or to the laws of this State, or of this charter or to the laws of this State as may be expedient in maintaining the peace, good government, health and welfare of the city in trade, commerce, manufactures, etc.,' ''It seems clear from the above that the city has power to regulate asloons, beer-houses, etc., by ordinance not inconsistent with any is a solidated of the out boundary of said park' (Forest Park).

"This set has not been repealed and i changing the limit to 500 feet, in my opinis void, in so far as it is inconsistent with house can be legally established within 200 feet of the out boundary of Forest Park as such boundary now exists."

Now FOR THE APPLICATION of this law to the proposed establishment of a summer resort on the Backer-Meier property. A line having its origin at the northeast corner of the Park, extending 200 feet from that boundary, would swing over all of the Kauffman property, all of the Griswold tract and would extend 270 feet along the west line of the Eacker-Meier property north from the north line of Maryland avenue, and 217 feet 5 inches east along the south line of the same property from the east side of Kings highway. The line would extend over and include the land on which the beer garden is proposed to be established. The land is in the 300 feet limit, in the prohibition district the ilawyers have said and the neighboring property owners are happy once more.

Mrs. Rusty Evans Fires Three Shots at He

People residing in the neighborhood of No by a strange sight. A little, delicate looking woman inquired of the people about there if a family had not recently moved into some house on the block. She was told that two women had moved into some rooms on the second floor of No. 916. Proceeding to the place she rapped on their door several times, but there was no response. Then she went down-stairs and hurled up bones, stones and other articles at the door and his it every time. Finally a man wearing a plug hat opened the door and his it every time. Finally a man wearing a plug hat opened the door and emerged. It was "Rusty" Evans, the well-known saloon-keeper, who prides himself somewhat on his pugilistic ability, and the woman was his wife. When he got down stairs they had some words and he moved his hands as though he intended striking her. Then the woman drew a revolner out of her dress pocket and the pugilist ran from her. She fired ashot at him and he darted south to the alley. Juss as he was entering it she fired again, and rushing to the mouth of the alley sent the third bullet whistling after his fleeing form. He made his escape, however, although some people who witnessed the shooting are of the opinion that one of the shots took effect in his leg. Officer Warren arrested Mrs. Evans and sent her to the Third District Station on a charge of discharging firearms. The women in whose apartments Mrs. Evans found her husband had only been living there a week, and were ordered out by Mrs. Walters, the landlady, the day after they moved in, on account of their behavior in having men visit them at all hours. Evans, Mrs. Walters states, has been a regular caller at the place and yeaterday took one of the women to the races, returning home drunk at 2a. m. His barkeeper, Adams, ass with the other woman, but left at 6a. m., according to the statement of Mrs. Walters. into some house on the block. She was told in the First Baptist Church at Upper Alton. The day is annually observed as a holiday by the people of Upper Alton and vicinty, and the audience that filled the church to hear the exercises was just as large and appreciative as any that has preceded it in years gone by. A more beautiful and inspiring day for the time-honored occasion could not have been selected. At 9:30 o'clock a. m., headed by the college band, the students of the college and the faculty and also the scholars of Wyman Institute marched from the college building to the church. The exercises were epened with an eloquent invocation by Rev. Dr. Harrison of Quincy. After an overture by the band, Miss Gertrude P. Clinton of Springfield, Ill., the only member of the class, delivered her oration, "Universal Friction." It was a master production, beautifully delivered and was listened to throughout with closest attention. The oratiog was followed by a storm of enthusiastic applause, after which the band played another selection. Rev. J. W. Ford, D. D., of St. Louis then delivered an address to the literary society of the college. His remarks were mainly on the question of missionary work and the address was said by many to have been one of the most profound and eloquent ever delivered at a commencement anniversary in this vicinity. The valed ictory address by Miss Clinton came next and her farewell to the faculty and her schoolmates was well worded, touching and affectionate and delivered in a beautiful manner. The ceremony of conferring the degrees was conducted by the President, Dr. A. A. Kendricks.

Home Deserted. Mrs. Lena Steinkamp and her husband quarreled over a mule about ten days ago, and when the husband returned home from day's work on the farm he found that a day's work on the farm he found that his wife had left with her three children. The parties live near Black Wainut, St. Charles County, and for the past week Mr. Steinkamp has been scouring the country for the fugitive. She was seen walking with her children toward St. Louis and the husband appeared at the Four Courts in order to interest the police in the search. Mrs. Steinkamp is 35 years of age, dark complexion, with dark hair and eyes. The children are three girls, aged 10, 12 and 14 years.

Charles Oatball, and two of the girls, maggle Reilly and one known as Nettle, are missing, and there is little doubt that all three loat their lives. The two first named were on the second-floor when the fire broke out and came down, but went back to secure their wearing apparel. All who escaped seved nothing but what they had on their persons. The station and anjacent building to the hotel were saved with hard work. A number of traveling men lost their baggage and samples. The loss is $15,000, with an insurance of $10,000.

ohn Israel Discharged on the Statements o the Men Who Prosecuted.

John Israel, the inventor of a burgiar alarm who was brought back here last week from Goshen, Ind., on a charge of fraud, preferred against him by Charles Lessman and Henry Wallbrink, West End butchers, had a prelim inary examination before Judge Campbell in the Court of Criminal Correction and was dis charged. The testimony showed that the prosecuting witnesses and several others had invested money in Israel's patent and that the prosecuting witnesses had paid $1,000 for the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the alarms in this city. They also invested $1,400 more in the patent, but it proved a failure and as they were out $2,400 all told they concluded they had been swindled and had Israel arrosted. Col. D. P. Dyer asked for the discharge of his client, the defendant Israel, on the State's case and Judge Campbell compiled with his request, holding that no fraud had been shown. Israel had letters from Goshen speaking very highly of his character and showing that he stood well among the people there. He will probably return to Goshen, and manufacture his patent alarms, iss the men who subscribed to the stock there desire him to do so. charged. The testimony showed that the
